INDEX TO THE HUMAN RELATIONS AREA FILES

HUMAN RELATIONS AREA FILES, INC.
NEW HAVEN, CONNECTICUT

1986

INTRODUCTION

This Index is a complete page-by-page subject index to the sources (books, articles, manuscripts, etc.) processed into the Human Relations Area Files cultural data archive through December, 1986. As such, it updates and replaces the original Index (Naroll and Morrison 1972), the Index Supplement (Steffens 1979), and the microfiche edition through 1983. This new edition was prepared for the Human Relations Area Files by the National Museum of Ethnology in Osaka, Japan.

As of December, 1986 there were 330 major Cultural Files containing over 5,500 sources with a total of over 700,000 pages included in the Human Relations Area Files data archive. In effect, therefore, this Index provides access to a whole ethnographic library. Its special value is that it reverses the organizational scheme of the archive itself by enabling users to search first by subject and then by cultural unit.

USES OF THE INDEX

The Index can be used for a variety of pruposes. First, it can be used to quickly gauge the amount of coverage given a particular subject in the Files, without having to consult the Files themselves. Thus, the user can quickly and easily estimate the amount of material available on a given subject, determine the number of Files where that information appears, and identify those specific Files that seem most promising from the standpoint of the amount of data contained therein. These types of information can be a valuable time and work-saver in a variety of ways. First, they can tip the user off that the Files contain little information on the subject of interest to him or her. Second, they can direct the user to Files that likely contain much useful information, saving him and her the time involved in searching through Files that contain little useful information. And, third, they can direct the user's attention to specific sources that seem to contain much useful information. These sources can then be consulted in the Files or, perhaps, in bound form in the library collection. Thus, this third advantage is really another use of the Index--as a bibliographic guide to the ethnographic literature. Full bibliographic citations to the sources in the Files can be found in HRAF Source Bibliography.

A third use of the Index relates to its importance as an information management tool. The Index can serve those charged with maintaining the Files as a comprehensive and definitive inventory list of all sources included in the Files through 1986.

HOW TO USE THE INDEX

The best way to learn to use this Index is to begin by examining the structure of the Index entries as shown in the sample on the following page.

The upper, left-hand entry (441 Mercantile Business) is the page heading and tells you what subject is covered on that page.

The heading consists of the Outline of Cultural Materials (Murdock et al. 1982) category number for the subject topic and the subject name. Thus, as with the Files themselves,

AA01 AA01:  1 Hulbert---281 282
AA01 AA01:  4 Moose-----143
AB02 AB06:  1 Takakura--38-B 39-A 40-B 52-B
AB43 AB43:  2 Kokeris---42  43  80  84  85  90
                        91  95 101 105 115 145
     AB43:  6 Kornhouse-38  52
     AB43:  7 Cornell---109

the OCM categories serve as the subject thesaurus for the Index. You begin using the Index by searching for subjects using the OCM as your guide.

The entries in the first and second columns are the Outline of World Cultures (Murdock 1983) codes for the cultural groups and Files where the sources can be found in the archive. Each cultural group and each File has a unique 2-letter, 2-number OWC code (AA01 is the code for Korea, AB02 for Fuedal Japan, AB06 Ainu, AB43 Okayama). The first column of codes indicates the File in which the pages from the source will be found. The second column of codes indicates the File for which the text was originally processed. Usually, but not always, the two sets of codes will be identical. For this reason, the first column OWC code appears only when the cultural unit is listed for the first time in the subject category or continues at the top of a new page. Thus, the OWC codes direct you to the Files in the archive which contain the relevant sources and pages.

The number and name which follow the OWC codes are the short-form bibliographic citation to the source. The number is the File source number and the name is the name of the author of the source document. Thus, 7 Cornell means that it is the seventh source in the AB43 File and is written by Cornell. The numbers following the citation are the page numbers in the source where information on the subject actually appears. This is the payoff, as you can now go directly to the source and page where the information is reported in the File.
